The woman on the right never used Ayer's Hair Vigor. She neglected her hair, and now herself suffers from neglect. On the contrary, the woman on the left has always used Ayer's Hair Vigor, and owes it to much of her youthful appearance and attractiveness.

LINK MCANDLESS GETS MORE LAND

Link McCandless has some more land. Governor Frear yesterday signed a patent which allows the champion of the great common people to add a few acres—fifty-two to be exact—to his other small holdings.

This is the patent which George R. Carter, when he was Governor, stated most emphatically that he would never sign. He never did. Some adjustments have been made since that time, however, and Governor Frear has appended his signature to the patent.

The new land which Link McCandless thus acquires is situated at Laie, Waianae, Oahu. The price paid by the purchaser is $2200.

ANSWER TO POOR MAN.

Editor (Advertiser)—In the Advertiser of the 18th appeared an article headed "The Devil and Link," and signed "Poor Man."

Now, I do not offer any criticism of this man's poverty, financially. I am a poor man myself. Don't own a square foot of land and but little else in Hawaii or anywhere, but I think such poverty no disgrace. Your "Poor Man" correspondent is poor indeed. Poor in spirit, poor in courage, poor in all that makes a man, he even considers his own sentiments so poor and his name so worthless that he does not sign it. Instead of advising someone else to "give each of the visiting Congressmen a copy of that list of lands Mr. McCandless has acquired, that was gotten out during the last campaign," why don't he do it himself? Those lists have been circulated in profusion all over the Territory, and if none can be found at headquarters that got them out, I have a few to spare with which I would accommodate him if he only had courage enough to sign his name to his publication. However, he is rather late with his advice, and I can assure him that it has been attended to. I know, because I did it myself. I placed at the disposal of the visiting Congressman a scrapbook containing nearly all the newspaper print and other printed campaign documents both pro and con in the last campaign, including the "Annie Keoni case," pointed out quite particularly the effect of the said printed list of "Link's" lands and the result of the "Annie Keoni case," elaborately shown and discussed by that master statesman, Mr. Atkinson, at Papakolea, on the Island of Hawaii, where a great man was given to the voters and free buses run for several miles up and down the coast in urging voters to the feast of "pig, pot, and eloquence." The result of which was as follows:
